"POURED SPECTACULAR"

I mostly make intuitive decisions when I paint, but my pourings are almost completely spontaneous. Painterly freedom guided by the true artist, gravity. I choose to use these highly colored, swirling bouts of paint on this years' transformer boxes. I will simulate the pours making the design a continuous pattern around the box. In my painted pours, the "wet pours" are smooth transitions and when "dry", they're beautifully broken. I will simulate both styles in the transformer - so there will be no large spots of single color (mitigating the graffiti requirement.)
