

As part of the City of Fort Collins Art in Public Places program, local artist Lisa Cameron Russell is painting a new mural in the east entry hallway of the Northside Aztlan Community Center. The mural, the design for which is shown above, highlights fall foliage and fruit crop trees from the local landscape—bringing warm colors into the interior of the building to be appreciated all year round.

The final painted space will be approximately 4' Tall x 24' wide and will be completed by the end of November 2016

For more information about the program, visit fcgov.com/artspublic.

