

HERE'S WHAT THE MEDIA IS SAYING ABOUT BRADY RYMER:

One of the top 10 kids' CDs of 2008! "Genuine roots rock for kids ... It's a Grammy nominee for best children's album."

The New York Times

"Lest anyone think this is musical Pablum, think again. His music has a rock 'n' roll heart."

"Accompanied by what might just be the best-sounding band in children's music, Rymer delivers a solid batch of songs that will engage both kids and adults ... he's firmly placed in the AAA (adult album alternative) format, with hints of alt-country, Cajun, and Motown thrown in for good measure."

Chicago Tribune

"Rymer, a former member of the roots-rock band From Good Homes, has put out one of the finest new kid rock CDs I've heard this year."

The Washington Post

"Here Comes Brady Rymer and the Little Band That Could" starts out catchy and keeps its audience moving throughout. It's full of jaunty tunes that use mandolin, accordion, guitar, piano and more ... When it comes to entertaining kids, Brady Rymer and the Little Band That Could definitely can."

The Mercury News

"With his road-honed musical comrades, Rymer presents a sextet that reflects the warmth and intimacy of his earlier work with the power of his later recordings. His latest effortlessly combines sparkling elements of folk, roots music and old-time rock 'n' roll."
-San Jose Mercury News

dailynews

"Rootsy Rymer's fourth kids' album is his best effort to date, a melodic collection of superbly written songs ... an exceptional, toe-tapping collection of music." -
L.A. Daily News

"Kids music superstar... one of the biggest names in children's entertainment."

"Brady Rymer is the man-of-the-moment for the preschool set."

Parenting®

PARENTING PICK!

"After sharing a stage with Dave Matthews and Joan Osborne, Rymer applies his adult contemporary style and warm vocals to kid topics. Parents will rock out to these stirring songs right along with their tykes."

"The roots-rocker was a member of RCA recording artists From Good Homes until parenthood took him off the road and into a new genre. The result: excellent vocals and engaging music that will keep front and backseat riders tuned in."

"Think of him as a fun-loving John Mellencamp mixed with a little Dylan for the rebel-rousable kid-sized set. In his fourth children's CD, Brady Rymer's newest collection shimmers with talent."
