Topic: Culture

Lead: City of Fort Collins

Players: Bohemian Foundation
Colorado State University
Downtown Development Authority
Private Sector

Description: With its significant history in the arts; its depth in both performing and visual arts organizations; physical facilities that are in need of upgrade and/or expansion; and a resident population who has expressed strong support for arts and cultural activities in Fort Collins, the City of Fort Collins is well poised to undertake a comprehensive cultural facilities master plan. This plan, supported by a needs assessment and a solid financial underpinning, will assist the City in evaluating and prioritizing what cultural facilities are needed in the future – both to establish Fort Collins as a cultural hub – as well as to foster ongoing economic development efforts.

Description: The Discovery Science Center must move out of its current location by 2008. The Fort Collins Museum is poised for expansion, having far outgrown the building currently housing the Museum. The two organizations have committed to pursuing a public/private partnership that includes the development of a downtown facility and through it, the creation of an enhanced culture experience for the community and visitors. The final location of the facility is yet to be determined. Both organizations have agreed to focus on delivering an exceptional visitor experience, maintaining both short and long term sustainability, based on today's known facts, while fulfilling the respective institutional missions.

Description: A Scientific and Cultural Facilities District (SCFD) is a special taxing district, authorized by state law, to provide financial assistance to scientific and cultural institutions serving district residents. The City of Fort Collins Cultural Services staff has been working with the Citizen group that is exploring the feasibility of creating an SCFD in Fort Collins or the Northern Colorado region. The proposed SCFD would be modeled on the very successful Denver area SCFD. The District would be funded through a sales tax and funding would be distributed by a citizen board to support a rich and diverse mix of cultural and scientific activities and programs.

Description: The Civic Center Plan is a framework for strategic actions that will reinforce the role of downtown Fort Collins as the primary governmental, office, finance, specialty, neighborhood retail, cultural, and entertainment center within the community. The plan is intended to guide future development of the 12-block Civic Center area as a human-scale, walkable, mixed-use district, anchored by civic spaces and buildings, providing transportation choices and connections to the surrounding environment. One key concept is the Civic Spine, a formal, landscaped pedestrian element connecting significant civic destinations.

Description: The City's main library is located in Library Park in Downtown Fort Collins. The City purchased the Poudre Creamery property, at the NE corner of Laporte and Howes, as a site for a new main library. There is also interest in expanding the current main library instead of building a new one. The City's Museum will be moving to a new location in a few years, which creates the possibility of expanding the main library to include the Carnegie Building, now occupied by the museum. Funding to expand or build a new main library is not currently available.

Description: The Lincoln Center renovations are designed to bring this aging facility back to prominence as the premier cultural facility in Fort Collins and the region. The Lincoln Center renovations address numerous deficiencies the facility faces in presenting performing and visual arts for the community and accommodating over 275,000 attendees each year. The renovations will be defined through public outreach and community input over the next several years, but some of the areas to be addressed include restrooms, elevator, expanded lobby and walk-way space, dedicated gallery, renovations to conference rooms, and technical and back of house improvements in the theatre spaces. Voters approved $4.85 million through the City Council's Building on Basics package in November of 2005. The Lincoln Center staff is dedicated to leveraging the tax dollars and raising the additional dollars to complete the renovations.

Description: In 2001, the voters defeated an initiative to build a new 2200 seat theatre and a 500 seat theatre in downtown Fort Collins, which was bundled with a new library and renovations to the Fort Collins Museum. It is still uncertain as the reason for the failed initiative; whether the occurrences of September 11 and subsequent economic downturn were to blame, or if the lack of choice in the bundling or the projects themselves were disagreeable to voters. At that time, a 2200-seat theatre was determined to be the right size facility for the community. However, since 2001, a number of new facilities have opened and still others are under development (ie: University Center for the Arts; The Ranch; Bas Bleu; Nonesuch Theatre; the Bohemian music venue). The City of Fort Collins Cultural Services Department is heading up a study to determine where we should be going with our future cultural facilities.

Description: Refers to the increasing number of youths, 14 to 18 years old - in Old Town who have been found to be drunk or under the influence of drugs. Police started seeing an increasing number of kids in May 2006, and have found that the youths pay transient homeless to purchase alcohol for them. District 1 officers initiated local media coverage of this issue in September '06 to bring awareness to parents who might be allowing their young teens to hang out unsupervised in the Plaza and engage in these illegal activities.
