

College and Prospect
By Robert Tully / 2017

Colorado artist Robert Tully created seven woven nest-like stainless steel sculptures for the medians west and east of the College and Prospect intersection.

To complement the median sculptures and as part of the Art in Public Places program, Robert Tully installed three kinetic sculptures that are mounted on the light poles on the south side of the street—two heading west from the intersection and one heading east. In each, 15 human figures pivot separately like weather vanes depending on the wind direction.

For information on the City of Fort Collins Art in Public Places Program, visit fcgov.com/artspublic.

