Residential Parking Permit Program (RP3)

CITY OF FORT COLLINS

*Residential Parking Permit Program (RP3) is a program designed to manage parking demand in specific zones within the city. The program operates on a permit basis, allowing residents to park in designated areas with a permit. This helps to reduce congestion and provides an alternative to on-street parking, especially in areas where parking is limited.

The program includes a permit fee, which supports the maintenance and enforcement of the program. Permits are issued for specific zones, and they are intended for long-term parking. The program is enforced through the use of meters and parking enforcement officers.

For more information on the Residential Parking Permit Program, including permit applications and parking rules, visit the City of Fort Collins website or contact the Parking Services department.
